

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. It is a disgraceful attempt to alter the outcome of the election just as the majority of the so called "liberal" media has done.

Suppression of ads that are critical to the current administration during the Super bowl and attempts to prevent Fahrenheit 911 from even being available to be seen are examples of large media corporations extensive attempts to suppress free thinking and free speech in this country.

The actions by Sinclair and other major media outlets are by far more obscene than anything seen during the halftime of the Superbowl, yet the FCC remains silent on this subject. Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. Thank you.
